Lisa's Chaplains Chats

Gratefulness is the key to a happy life that we hold in our hands, because if we are not grateful, no matter how much we have we will not be happy.....because we will always want to have something else or something more.

David Steindl-Rast

We seem to put a lot of conditions on what we need to be happy and the world seems intent on reinforcing the notion that happiness depends on external factors. In contrast, true happiness comes from inside of us, we all know situations of individuals that seem to have it all but are still unhappy. As there are also those that appear to have little or live with great challenges that seem to radiate a great sense of joy. Having gratitude to what we have is, even if at times it is only small things, is acknowledgment of the gifts and specialness of our lives and journeys and recognize that happiness lies in us being content with what we have.

Gratefulness is the key to a happy life that we hold in our hands, because if we are not grateful, no matter how much we have we will not be happy.....because we will always want to have something else or something more.

David Steindl-Rast
